A Message from Pastor Mark:

Throughout scripture, we find a God who remains faithful to God's promises and people, and who continually invites us to discipleship. Written to a people in exile, these words from the prophet Isaiah remind us that no matter our past or limitations or brokenness, God continues (and is willing!) to do a "new thing" in us.

God always invites us into the world God loves so that we might connect faith to life. Following the Spirit is always something of a "both/and" exercise and isn't always easy or as clear as we'd like. On the one hand, we do our best to discern God's direction and position ourselves to follow. On the other hand, we recognize that God's invitation comes on God's time.

Many times, faith requires our going out not knowing exactly the destination or timeline (think of God's call to Abraham and Sarah in Genesis 12, or Jesus' invitation to his disciples to "drop their nets and follow him"). We do follow, of course, but do so knowing we "walk as yet by faith and not by sight," and dare to trust God will get us where God wants and needs us to be.
